Unlike our House of Representatives. the Senate of the U. S. defeated the Suffrage amendment, by one vote. This was mainly brought about by the almost unamious vote of Southern Senators against it. The proposed amendment is expected to be submitted to the states by the next Congress for ratification.

The House of Representatives of the Missouri Legislature passed House Bill No. 1, a bill giving women the right to vote for Presidential electors in this state, by a vote of 122 to 8, and the Senate has received the bill, and ordered it engrossed, with the prospect that it will pass the Senate by a close margin. Our Representative, as usual, voted on the right side of this important measure.

Washington and England

It has been the general belief of Americans that George Washington was the inveterate foe of England. However, in the light of new and more unprejudiced survey brought about by a different view point, this does not ring true.

We must remember that it was a system, and not a people, that we fought in the Revolutionary War. The people of England were no less discontented on account of the Divine Right of Kings than were their Colonial brethern over seas. The War against the colonies was so unpopular that many distinguished officers, resigned rather than serve against the the

It was not with the approval of Parliment that the German king George III, waged the war, but in spite of it. To get soldiers, he must needs hire Hessians from his German kinsfolk, to augment his dwindling forces.

George Washington but met in the field what the English, through public sentiment, and opposition in Parliment were opposing by peaceful means. To day, he is heralded in England, and in the over seas Dominions, as having fought for the English peoples.

It is but fitting to briefly review these facts in connection with the celebration this week of the birthday of the illustrious Father of our Country. Let us plead as he would plead with us were he here for in a better under standing of these great nations lies the peace and prosperity of the world, and the transmitting to posterity the heritage that George Washington strove for.

GARBER

After the winter and storm comes the calm and spring like weather again. The mornings are frosty and cool, but every indication points to an early spring, and many of our farmers are getting ready to go to work.

J. R. Roberts, who owns a sawmill near Day, was here and reported that they had all been sick but were on the mend again.

J. W. Vining and Frank Jones have just returned from Cotter and Bergman, Ark., where they have been on the hunt of tie timber, but with the exception of Myrtle and Bergman, Ark., found that it was well cut out, and not much better than at home.

Tom Walden of Bergman, came in Monday on business, he expects to move back to his farm near Garber the first of the month.

Miss Mariam Lynch of Marrel Cave was in Garber Monday, and reported that a novelist is in the neighborhood now, who will outdo Mr. Wright in his famous novels. Well, we will try to stand it, as the more book written on the Ozarks the better it is for those who read them, as well as the country, as the subject connot be overdone.

Little interest is taken in the war now that it is supposed to be over, and Springfield Wednesday. all the boys are at home in their old places again, that is, the boys of this vicinity are, and yet there is no peace declared and it has been three months since the armistice was signed. And correspondence from several other the worst part is coming in the way of places, on page five.

paying the bills now with high taxes. With tobacco at $1 a pound, some of the men say it is more than they will stand and that will cut the weed out of their diet. Some think there will be a smash in the prices of what we have to live on, yet the commercial men tell us that coffee and sugar will still go higher, so there is not much comfort yet to cheap living, without we take to roots and herbs, when spring fund mortgage of J M Clark Jr., and opens up. We notice that hogs have date set for May 8, 1919. taken an upward ture. That is good for the farmer to sell by but looks glum nett, approved. for the poor man that has his meat to buy, but fortunately most of our farmers have their meat put away for summer use. It is the ones that cannot raise their own hogs who have to suffer.

Miss Beulah Cox is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Fronaberger, of Reedsprings.

Chas. Thornley and Guy Rubelee have both quit the bridge work. Mr Thornley will go north to shear sheep and Mr. Rubelee to Joplin to have an operation on one of his arms that was hurt and broken several years ago and refuses to heal.

J. W. Boraker and wife of Aurora came in last week for a visit with their children.
